AUBURN UNIVERSITY ATHLETICS

Auburn University is well known for its success in collegiate athletics. Recent highlights include trips to the Final Four, College World Series, and the college football National Championship.

On football gamedays, the Auburn can grow from a city of 65,000 to over 150,000 as fans of the Auburn Tigers flock from around the state and southeast to support their team. While all of these fans can't fit inside the 87,451 seat Jordan Hare Stadium, they patronize shops, bars and restaurants to enjoy the game. Nowhere is this more apparent than the 'rolling' of Toomers Corner in downtown Auburn after a Tigers victory.

While football season provides the largest crowds, spectators visit the campus for other sporting events throughout the year. Other widely attended athletic events include men's and women's basketball, baseball and softball amongst others.

COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENT

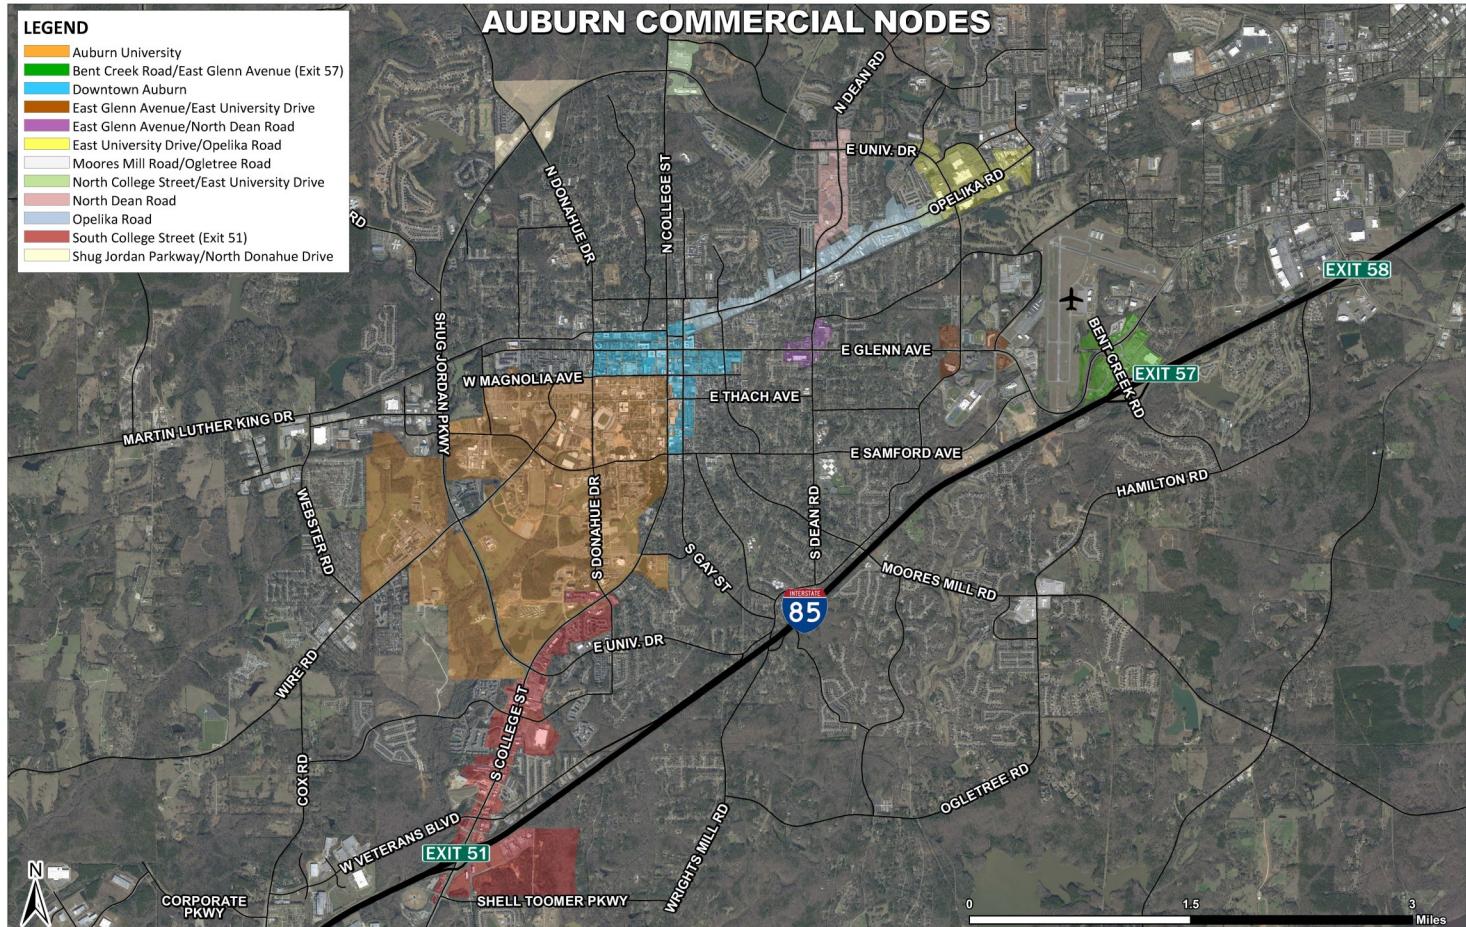

Auburn offers a variety of locations and types of commercial development, including a traditional downtown, neighborhood commercial nodes, commercial corridors and regional commercial centers. It is the largest city in the MSA and serves as the commercial hub of the region.

Downtown Auburn has continued its significant growth in recent years, attracting local, regional and national retailers, award-winning restaurants, and new office space. Several student housing developments have been constructed downtown in recent years, increasing foot traffic in downtown and surrounding areas. Significant downtown projects planned and under construction include a new Publix supermarket, Auburn Bank headquarters, Auburn University's Tony & Libba Rane Culinary Science Center, and construction of a city-owned 350 space parking deck to serve and support future downtown development.

Outside of downtown, commercial corridors and neighborhood nodes have seen continued development and investment. These nodes serve Auburn's neighborhoods, students, and travelers on Interstate 85. Shopping centers anchored by grocery stores Publix, Kroger and Walmart Neighborhood Market have opened or seen reinvestment within the last five years. These developments also include adjacent retailers and restaurants.

COMMERCIAL INCENTIVES

Auburn has made it a priority to promote and facilitate the reinvestment and development of commercial properties throughout the city by partnering with commercial businesses and developers.

Sales and use tax abatements through the Commercial Development Incentive Program are available for new commercial projects on vacant property, the redevelopment of existing commercial space to recruit new business, and the revitalization of existing retail space that would contribute to larger City initiatives. Since its inception in 2011, this program has partnered on 36 commercial development projects accounting for over $150,000,000 of private capital investment.

Loans to commercial businesses are offered by the City of Auburn through the CDBG Section 108 program which provides small business loan opportunities for local entrepreneurs. These loans exist for growth and increase capacity, and business owners are required to create permanent jobs principally for low and moderate-income citizens. Available loans include the Section 108 Commercial Loan Program and Section 108 Microloan Program.

Public investments have been made in infrastructure throughout Auburn to promote quality commercial development. Downtown has seen ongoing streetscape improvements, including a major overhaul of the famous Toomer's Corner. Several phases of the Renew Opelika Road streetscape enhancements and road improvements have been implemented. The city recently opened a 350 space parking deck located on Wright Street. This deck will serve and support future commercial development in downtown Auburn.

The City of Auburn also maintains an Available Commercial Properties webpage. This page serves to connect businesses with available property listings throughout the city. Contact us if you would like to list your commercial space available for sale or lease on our webpage.
